

SOVIET 'CONGRESS' OPENS IN MOSCOW

Approximately 300 Delegates Attend Meeting To Ratify 1933 Plans.

By STANLEY P. RICHARDSON.

MOSCOW, Jan. 13.—(AP)—In the gorgeous white gold throne-room of the former czar, soviet Russia's parliamentary session opened tonight with the regular session of the central executive committee of the Russian socialist federation of soviet republics. In St. Andrew's hall of the Kremlin palace, the delegates met to approve the conduct of the republic's affairs since the last meeting and to ratify plans for 1933.

Approximately 300 delegates, many of whom included men and women in the native costume of distant provinces, sat stolidly in straight rows of wooden desks while speakers dined out voluminous reports on claimed accomplishments and their intentions for the future.

The workers' peasants and a few uniformed soldiers comprising the membership of the central executive committee furnished a strange contrast to their surroundings in their plain and often coarse dress relieved now and then by the spots of color of the native costumes and uniforms. Large white marble columns, the vaulted ceilings and large candelabra, all of which were richly decorated in gold leaf, attested to the splendors of the former regime.

High above the wooden dais which now has taken the place of the throne hangs a framed lithograph of Lenin surrounded by a large seal of the workers' and peasants' republic. These, with desks now covering the polished floor and loudspeakers attached to each column, are the only changes that have been made in the room. Even the seals of the czar's regiments still line the walls on three sides.

Tonight's proceedings were opened by Michael Kalinin, who is president of the central executive committee of the Russian socialist federation of soviet republics, as well as of the central executive committee of the union of soviet socialist republics, who in a brief address introduced the main speaker, Daniel Sidorov, president of the council of people's commissars of the Russian socialist federation of soviet republics. The main speaker delivered a report on the results of the five-year plan and plans for 1933 and national economy.

On the speakers' platform with Kalinin sat Vyacheslav M. Molotov, president of the union council of the people's commissars, and highest officials of the Russian socialist federation of soviet republics. Joseph Stalin, leader of the communist party, was not present.

The session will last several days, followed by the annual meeting of the all-union central executive committee beginning January 22.

COSMIC RAY SEEN AS COMING SOURCE OF WORLD ENERGY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Professor Auguste Piccard tonight pictured cosmic rays as the world's future source of energy, manufactured at little or no cost for such abundant sources as water by some process of smashing atoms.

Speaking before the National Geographic Society, the famous stratosphere explorer said it is "high time" man should be preparing to replace the earth's dwindling coal supplies with a new source of energy, which he believes will be the cosmic rays, which rain continuously on the earth from the sky.

"The transformation of the atoms of three drops of water," he said, "could produce enough cosmic rays and enough energy and motor power to light up the whole city of Washington through a whole night."

Cosmic rays are produced by a "modification of atomic energy," he declared, explained, which releases tremendous energy, and "when we are able to manufacture these rays artificially on earth, we will be able to utilize that vast energy, and can snatch out of a handful of air, from a source now invisible, sufficient energy to operate hundreds of high-powered machines."

Big Citrus Season Reported in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Nathan Mayo, state commissioner of agriculture, today estimated 4,180,141 boxes of citrus fruit were approved by state inspectors and shipped during the regular Florida season from September 1 to December 31, and during extended period to December 20.

He said 35,341 boxes of fruit were condemned as immature and damaged but that "our inspection season this year has been one of the most successful we ever had."

Two Policemen, 3 Others Jailed In Daring Abduction in Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Two policemen and three other men, one an ex-convict, were arrested in simultaneous raids today, and promptly indicted on a charge of kidnapping in the federal court building in Brooklyn. The carefully timed arrests disclosed for the first time the kidnapping itself—an audacious plot in which Ernest Schoenig, of Pleasantville, N. J., was spirited away from the federal building, December 27, held until January 10 under demands for $100,000 ransom, but finally released without payment of ransom.

A. S. COX, 72, PASSES AT HAPEVILLE HOME

A. S. Cox, 72, retired contractor and father-in-law of George I. Simons, city park manager, died at 11:30 o'clock Friday night at his residence at 3421 Stewart avenue, Hapeville.

Mr. Cox, a resident of Atlanta for 24 years, had been ill for several weeks with pneumonia. He was a native of Woodbury, and the body will be taken there for funeral services. Large white marble columns, the vaulted ceilings and large candelabra, all of which were richly decorated in gold leaf, attested to the splendors of the former regime.

Surviving are his wife and three daughters, Mrs. George Simons, Mrs. A. D. Hall and Mrs. Annie Walters, of Atlanta. J. U. McKoon & Sons, of Newnan, have charge of the funeral arrangements.

HONOR SYSTEM HELD INADVISABLE AT NORTHWESTERN

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The Northwestern University student council has reported unfavorably on President Walter Dill Scott's proposal to install the honor system in examinations.

Leroy Adams, chairman of the council, said the student body must be "raised to a higher level" before professors can rely on the honesty of their students not to take advantage of such an examination. Hollis Peck, of Sioux Falls, S. D., another member of the council, said he and his schoolmates "They're a motley crew, without the faintest notion of what honor is in respect to school work."

He elaborated his statement by declaring that the honor system was followed successfully at the University of Virginia because "Virginians are born gentlemen."

"Princeton and other eastern schools also have students of integrity who respect the honor system," he said.

FLORIDIAN DEFENDS CHAIN STORE LEVY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Under searching questioning by members of the supreme court, H. E. C. Capron, assistant attorney-general of Florida, today asked the high tribunal not to hold unconstitutional his state's entire law taxing chain stores, if it should find one of its provisions invalid.

He made this plea in concluding oral argument on the appeal by chains against Florida's law. The justices had pressed him to support a part of the law which imposes a graduated scale of taxes upon chains operating in more than one county, and also had questioned him closely on the exemption of co-operative stores from the chain tax.

SALES TAX RESULTS LAUDED BY CONNER

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Discussing the Mississippi sales tax here today, Governor Mike Conner stated that he regarded the sales tax not as a substitute for all other taxation, as some of its advocates have suggested, but merely as supplementary to taxes on property, income and privileges.

One had feature of the tax, he said, is its easiness. This feature, he explained, tends to develop an "easy come, easy go" habit of thought among public officials.

Condemning the long indifference of businessmen to governmental affairs, the governor took occasion to defend public officials to the extent of saying that they are not wholly to blame for increased taxation and governmental costs.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Twenty-eight per cent of the population of Florida was in need of assistance from the state unemployment relief fund during December, the emergency relief advisory committee today reported to Governor Dave Sholtz.

The committee, meeting here for the first time with the new governor, painted a picture of serious economic conditions throughout the state but recommended that the facts be made public "as it is our belief that the first step necessary to correct an evil is to recognize it."

Cars for State Workers Nettle Representative

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The sight of "state employees riding around in big cars while we're walking or riding mules" has so nettled Representative T. H. Fancher, of White county, and his constituents that he said today he would introduce in the legislature shortly a bill to dispose of all state-owned passenger automobiles. The proceeds would go into the state's general operating fund.

TEXTILE MERCHANTS OPPOSE FARM BILL

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Walter S. Brewster, president of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants, today declared the pending farm relief bill, so far as it affects the cotton industry, would give little or no actual relief to the cotton farmer and cost the American public many millions of dollars in extra taxes.

The memorandum sent to members of congress, he said, the association believed the enactment of "this or any similar legislation would bring a minimum of temporary benefit and would finally result in a serious detriment to the cotton farmer, the cotton textile industry and the whole American people."

Charging that the pending bill is "essentially a sales tax on the necessities of life," the association held that it would put a heavy burden on the users of the low-cost cotton goods, mainly small wage earners. The memorandum pointed out that the members of the association distribute the majority of cotton textiles manufactured in this country.

Oklahoma Solon Seeks Silver as State Money

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Representative J. M. Hays, of Oklahoma county, today introduced in the Oklahoma house a bill to make the silver dollar the state legal tender.

The measure would authorize Governor Murray to purchase silver bullion with state funds and "cause it to be coined into dollars for use in paying both public and private debts."

"Any state," said Hays, "under section 10 of the federal constitution has the right to make a particular coin a legal tender. Oklahoma has never exercised that right."

BOARD FAVORS PAPER GIVING COUNCIL POWER

Measure Offered by White Was Vetoed by Murphy Several Weeks Ago.

Councilman John A. White Friday afternoon obtained sanction of the charter revision committee to a proposal to permit the city government to consolidate departments, elect all department heads and fix their salaries and terms of office.

The measure provides that all charter restrictions regarding complete conduct of the municipality except the fixing of the salaries and terms of offices of the mayor and council shall be vested in the mayor and council.

Allenman J. Charlie Murphy, former mayor pro tem, who as acting mayor, vetoed the same measure several weeks ago after it was approved by council, voted against the measure and asserted he would fight it on the floor of council.

The committee advised a proposal by Councilman Parks Rusk to wrest from the mayor the right to name council committees and vest that right in the mayor pro tem of council.

It asked the Georgia assembly to submit a constitutional amendment allowing cities and counties to classify property (intangibles) for taxation, and asked that the municipality be given access to state records in the search for intangibles for taxation.

'Strong Ambassador' To Cuba Urged by Fish

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Appointment of a "strong ambassador" to Cuba who "would clean up the mess that prevails there" was advocated today by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., who yesterday introduced a resolution calling on the president to use his influence to "restore civil rights" in the island.

Fish, republican, New York, told newspapermen that a man "like Dwight Morrow" could straighten things out in Cuba in a very brief period. He said he was not criticizing Ambassador Guggenheim, but "said he lacks influence."

"There is no doubt, the New Yorker said, that a state of terror and tyranny prevails in Cuba. He said he had investigated the situation thoroughly before introducing his resolution.

TAXATION GROUP URGES ECONOMY

Report to U. S. C. of C. Directors Hits Increase in Taxes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Economic conditions in government operation rather than tax increases were urged today in a report of the federal tax committee to the directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The committee, reporting through former Governor Redfield Proctor of Vermont, expressed the opinion that tax adjustments should be avoided until after the March 15 income tax period and "until after it is seen to what extent congress is ready to cut expenditures."

"Increases in the rate of income taxes or other taxes now being levied or the addition of a manufacturers' sales tax or other new forms of new levies, with the possible exception of a beer tax, in the present absence of action of congress are unwarranted," the report said. "Instead, economies should be effected."

"In the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1933," it added, "a deficit in excess of a billion dollars, which must be financed through borrowings, appears inevitable. A more accurate gauge of the probable size of this deficit will be possible after income tax returns are received in March. It may reasonably be assumed that a large increase in the debt this fiscal year will not be achieved through reduction of expenses or through legislation to augment the revenues of the remaining six months."

"On the basis of the estimates of receipts and expenditures for the next fiscal year, ending June 30, 1934, which are now before congress, the country is faced with the prospect of a deficit of some few hundreds of millions of dollars in that year. Total expenditures payable from the treasury are estimated at $3,700,000,000, including $334,000,000 of retirement of public debt from sinking fund and other ordinary receipts. Since, however, it is proposed that the latter amount be reborrowed, without increasing the public debt, the amount of receipts required would be $3,366,000,000. The receipts from existing laws are estimated at $2,949,000,000, leaving a prospective deficit, under the executive estimates of not less than $307,000,000. It must be recognized that the deficit would be increased if expenditures exceed $3,700,000,000 or receipts fall short of $2,949,000,000."

"A deficit in 1934 of any amount, whether more or less than the above-mentioned $307,000,000, should not be allowed to occur and steps should be taken in the present short session of congress to bring the budget of that year into balance without the incurrence of new debt on account of ordinary expenditures."

CIGAR TAX RECEIPTS OFF ONLY $186,775.21

Cigarette and cigar tax receipts in Georgia decreased to $186,775.21, 12.46 per cent, much less than anticipated. R. E. Mathieson, vice chairman of the state revenue commission, announced Friday.

The collections for 1932 were $1,318,178.75 as compared with $1,504,553.96 for 1931, Mr. Mathieson said.

All of the fund is diverted to pay the pensions of Confederate veterans and their widows. The cigar tax now is 10 per cent and the cigarette tax 20 per cent, the latter dropping back to the old rate of 10 per cent April 1, unless the legislature votes to continue the higher rate.

Television is still in the laboratory stage as far as actual results are concerned, and its practical use is not likely in the near future, Colonel Powell Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, of Cincinnati, said Friday in Atlanta on his way to Florida.

Colonel Crosley came down in his airplane, Lesgo, piloted by Eddie Nirmair, he left Cincinnati at 7:20 o'clock, eastern time, Friday morning and arrived here at 9:40 o'clock, central time. His family is already at Sarasota, his winter home, from which Colonel Crosley commutes to and from Cincinnati.

Town for Forgotten Southerners Being Established in Mississippi

By JAMES H. STREET,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

A town for forgotten men—just a home for the poor folks—is under construction in Mississippi.

The town is called Goodwill, and the plan is to make it a little city that will have everything but wealth. Its mission is to offer refuge to jobless southerners. His family is already at Sarasota, his winter home, from which Colonel Crosley commutes to and from Cincinnati.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is co-operating with the unique scheme, the Goodwill Industries of Louisville, Ky., is backing the project. It is incorporated in Mississippi as Goodwill Industries and Plantation.

There is no stock and it must operate without profit to itself.

Chauncey E. Beaman, superintendent of Goodwill Industries, is president of the corporation. It has 20,000 acres near Zama—a village in middle Mississippi and it already has a bustling population.

The Goodwill school has 200 pupils—children of families that went to the community to begin all over again. More than 50 vocations are in practice there now.

Goodwill Industries, parent of the strange town, is an interdenominational undertaking with offices in many southern cities. The settlement for jobless is just one of its projects.

Beaman says unemployed southerners who want a new start may move there. Various industries like fruit growing and dairying will be established. The unskilled will be taught a trade. The population of the little town will change frequently as it will maintain an unemployment bureau and men and women will be sent "back outside" to various trades when conditions improve.

Beaman expects the town to be operating in a big way by February 1. Applications for citizenship are made to him at the Louisville or Zama office. He says the list of prospective Goodwill citizens is growing.

$180,000 Spent on Her in 9 Years, Woman Loses $500,000 Balm Suit

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Alma Newton Anderson's story of how Ernest R. Graham, architect, wooed her for nine years and then married her, was cut short today by an order from the judge for a verdict against her.

Mrs. Anderson, author, musical success, and member of a prominent Louisiana family, had sought $500,000 damages on the grounds that after jilting her the wealthy architect conspired with private detectives to besmirch her reputation and force her to live an exile from America.

She spent three years in getting the case to court and only two hours on the witness stand.

Defense attorneys said in their opening statements that the suit was fabricated on falsehoods of an avicious woman. They charged Mrs. Anderson attempted for years to harass Graham into paying her huge sums of money.

Judge Paul McWilliams gave no reason for the directed verdict, but came after attorneys for both sides had conferred for an hour in the judge's chambers.

Asked if there had been a settlement for his client, Attorney Leo Hana said: "My lips are sealed, but you can read between the lines."

Graham's attorneys also indicated a settlement had been made.

Colonel Crosley said that the lowest ebb in business conditions was reached last June, and that trade had been holding its own since then. Improvement, he added, was problematical.

"That is something that can't be forecast," he declared.

Colonel Crosley took occasion to congratulate the Georgia distributor where Woodrow Wilson was nominated for president in 1912 and Franklin D. Roosevelt ended his southern presidential tour last fall.

The first of his numerous original was discovered at 1:50 a. m. and within a few minutes a general alarm summoned all the fire fighting apparatus of the city.

Unable to bring the flames under control, the firemen turned their attention to numerous small fires started by flying embers. Fire damage over a wide area by a 30-mile northwest wind.

Colonel Washington Bowles Jr., commander of the fire department, said the walls and structural steel are seriously damaged, the loss will total $1,500,000 but if the walls and frame work survive the fire, the damage probably will be about $500,000.

Stanley Field Heads Huge Chicago Bank

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Stanley Field, a member of the Field family of Chicago merchants, today became head of the biggest bank west of New York, the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company.

He was elected chairman of the board of directors, succeeding the veteran George M. Reynolds, who recently retired.

Although a comparatively new figure among financial leaders, Field has been the bank's most active executive since his promotion a year ago to the chairmanship of the executive committee. At that time he took the place of Arthur Reynolds, brother of the retiring chief.

7 Election Officials Indicted in New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Seven men reported to be election officials were indicted today by federal grand jurors investigating charges of election frauds.

At the same time, federal investigators reported an examination of voting machines in seven election districts in the fourth assembly district where the democratic candidate was boosted as much as 100 people by adding to their actual total votes cast for minor parties.

The January grand jury indicted Nathan Silver, democratic chairman of the board of elections in the fifth district of the fourth assembly district.

Of the other six men indicted, three were republican election officers and two were democratic. They are charged with conspiracy to falsify election returns, a charge carrying a penalty of not more than $5,000 in fines, or both.

776,812 VETERANS RECEIVING FUNDS; 234,300 WOUNDED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(UP)—The United States is paying direct money benefits to three times as many World War veterans as are listed as wounded casualties, according to General Frank T. Hines, director of the veterans' bureau.

Wounded casualties, according to war department figures, were 234,300. Veterans now receiving direct money benefits number 776,812, according to veteran bureau figures. Comparative figures cited by the bureau indicate Britain and France are paying one out of four of their wounded.

Director Hines has calculated that based upon the numbers reported dead or wounded, the annual expenditures per man are: Great Britain $58; France $51; United States $2,608.

Based on the number mobilized, the figures per year per man are: United States $180; Canada $38.64; France $34.00; Great Britain $28.49; Germany $22.98; Italy $12.44.

Modernistic Furniture Devoid of Acute Angles

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Evolution of modernistic furniture from cubed and acute-angled severity to gracefully curved and unadorned simplicity has been shown strikingly at the 11th semi-annual Grand Rapids furniture exposition this week.

The mode runs to comfort and conservative beauty. It reflects the trend of the times. Articles are smaller and more compact, with no wasted space. They are finished simply, barren of fancy carving. This, the designers explain, is done in recognition of the era of small city apartments. The plainness meets the desire of housewives for neatness and cleanliness with a minimum of work.

Nothing is superfluous. Not a piece but has a real use. And things look restful and inviting. Especially is this true of chairs and davenport, which are cut with a comfortable backline.

Conflict With Landbund Laid to Von Schleicher

MUNICH, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The national socialist agrarians' broadsheet against Chancellor Kurt Von Schleicher today by addressing an open letter to the chancellor, accusing him of conducting a selfish opportunistic policy and blaming him for the conflict with the Landbund.

Earlier in the week a delegation from the Landbund—the National Agrarian League—began a campaign of criticism of the government's farm policies.

MARKETING SYSTEM OF FARMERS DEPLORED

Policy of Co-ordination Is Stressed by Thompson in Nashville Address.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 13.—(AP) Sam H. Thompson, member of the federal farm board, told the Tennessee Farm Bureau Federation in an address here today that "farmers will never be placed on an equal basis with men in other industries until they adopt the fundamental policy of co-ordinating production with marketing."

"The marketing system used in handling our farm products is no doubt one of the factors responsible for the reduction in the farmers' income," Mr. Thompson said, "but no marketing system could have prevented the extremely low levels of prices and farm incomes that have been reached during the last few years."

"Still more would join co-operatives if they understood how little they, as individuals, have to say about the prices of their products where the buying power is so intensely concentrated in the hands of a comparatively few men. I will give you a few examples to show what I mean."

"The handling power on the part of dealers who market farm products is so concentrated that four companies control about 90 per cent of the tobacco consumed in the form of cigarettes in this country. These four companies control about 80 per cent of the cotton produced in the United States. Five companies control as vast a quantity of dairy products that they dominate the market. Three dealers handle approximately 40 per cent of the cotton produced in the United States. Ten men handle at least half the wool and four companies process about two-fifths of the live stock."

"This indicates that farmers have good reasons for giving up their ideas about the marketing as individuals in competition with other producers and turning to a system of concentrating their selling power in the hands of their own organization managers in order to meet this intensely organized buying power."

"More than 200 negroes have complained that they were promised prosperity on plantations and were furnished transportation to the farm colonies for the farmers," Mr. Maddox said.

"The negroes say all of their crop is taken in payment of alleged debts and a debt balance is usually left," Maddox said. "They say that after the crop was made they were chased away by the land owners and their wives and families forced to remain and work for nothing."

COURT OPENS RECORDS OF RICHMOND POLICE

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 13.—(AP)—An order that all finished police business, such as that appearing on police blotters and executed warrants, must be available at all times to all persons applying for access was issued today in Hastings court by Judge John L. Ingram.

The judge's ruling was made after a two-hour hearing on a petition of the Times-Dispatch Publishing Company for a writ of mandamus to compel Chief of Police Robert B. Jordan and Director of Public Safety James M. Shepherd to allow reporters access to records in precinct stations.

In giving his decision Judge Ingram said that the records must be open to the public because, if they were secret a man's own family might not know he was on trial in police court. He qualified his order by explaining that there might be exceptional cases in which the police would be justified in withholding some information and that his ruling did not apply to unfinished business, but that as soon as an arrest was made and recorded information regarding it, it should be available at precinct stations as well as at police headquarters.

Brought in the name of the publishing company and two reporters for the Times-Dispatch, the petition presented to the court this morning held that by an order, issued January 3, Chief Jordan had denied reporters access to precinct station blotters, murder and assault reports and criminal warrants. It charged that this action was "arbitrary and unwarranted abuse" of the discretionary powers of the police head and that it imposed a censorship on news of interest and importance to the public which violated the fundamental rights of freedom of the press and also was in violation of the constitutions of Virginia and of the United States.

Some members of the forum banking committee, however, said they were willing to go any lengths to achieve currency expansion.

ATLANTA, GA., JAN. 14, 1933.

THE ALLOTMENT BILL.

The determination of congress to bring relief to the farmer is evidenced by the passage of the drastic, and much criticized, domestic allotment bill. The bill now goes to the senate, where it is known it will face strong opposition from both republican and democratic senators.

As originally introduced the bill had a number of outstandingly objectionable features, especially, as pointed out by The Constitution, in the limited number of farm products to which it extended relief and in its threat to the safety of the cotton textile industry.

As finally passed by the house, these objectionable features have been somewhat modified, although not to the extent which The Constitution believes should have been done in order to assure equal benefits to all agricultural interests and to guarantee against unfortunate results to the cotton mills of the country.

As pointed out by Congressman Parker, of the first Georgia district, it would have been foolish to expect a general improvement of farm conditions from a relief measure which ignored many of the chief agricultural products of the country. Congressman Parker was correct in his opposition to the bill in its original form, and his final support of it is to be explained by the extension of its benefits to peanuts and buttermilk, among the chief cash products in its territory.

As first introduced, the bill guaranteed minimum prices only to cotton, wheat, tobacco and hogs, but it goes to the senate with amendments, including rice, peanuts and buttermilk. The bill is thus materially strengthened, especially in the case of the southern farmer, whose chief cash crops are cotton, tobacco, peanuts and rice.

The bill, as originally drawn, would have put an insurmountable obstacle in the path of the prosperity of the cotton textile mills of the south and New England, by placing a processing tax on cotton fabrics while leaving competitive fabrics tax free. In its amended form, the bill specifies that whenever a tax is levied on cotton processing an equal tax shall be assessed against silk and rayon processing.

Undoubtedly, the house amendments have made the proposed relief more equitable than would have been the case under the bill as first drawn, but it would furnish more general and sounder alleviation of the agricultural situation if it had been made even more inclusive, both as to the farm products covered and the fabrics taxed.

NO FARM "COLLAPSE" HERE.

No more remarkable illustration of how the effects of "hard times" can be overcome, whether in business or agriculture, is to be found than the business-like methods adopted by the Shal Creek farmers of Hart county to dispose of products for which no sales could be secured through former marketing efforts.

Banding themselves together in a selling unit, 57 farmers in this north Georgia county purchased a community truck and once a week sent their products to the Atlanta market. Their net cash return in two years' time has reached nearly $25,000 and in addition they have put up $7,000 cans of surplus products for their own use, and raised all the meat they needed.

These farmers have shipped eggs, poultry, turkeys, butter, hams, vegetables and other farm items to Atlanta, and have, as a result of a careful study of this market, greatly improved preparation and packing of their products so that better prices might be obtained.

G. T. Gard, vocational teacher of the Shal Creek school, thus describes the success with which the farmers of his community have been able to keep their families comfortable, despite the drop in the price of farm products:

With our truck and our canning we have reached 57 families in Shal Creek and that is why we can live without a lot of money. After all, money is not the only thing that gives happiness as it only plays a part and the home is where one can be happy. This canning is only a part as there are thousands of glass cans put up besides the tin cans. Come up and see our home grocery stores.

The activities of these farmers show how agriculture can emerge from the doldrums of the past four years—and is an unanswerable argument that the back-to-the-farm movement need not further depress agricultural markets.

These Hart county families were able, without a dollar of income from cotton, to live in comfort and have a fair amount of cash through conducting their farms on a business-like basis. Business has been able to weather the economic storm by intensive economy and sales efforts, and these Hart county farmers have proven that the same thing is possible in agriculture.

AGAINST THE PUBLIC WELFARE.

The injustice to the taxpayers, and the economic lack of wisdom of having the salaries of city or county officials and employees set by state law, is illustrated in the difficulty being experienced by the Bibb county commission in its efforts to effect the same reductions in such salaries as it has already made in salaries not so exempted from necessary economy moves.

The Bibb county grand jury, with the county board co-operating, has outlined a program of strict economy for the county government, in line with which a schedule of salary reductions has been prepared. The acceptance of these reductions is mandatory under law, with the exception of those salaries fixed by the legislature.

Among the latter class of salaries are the officers and employees of the Macon city court, the municipal court, the juvenile court, the solicitor and his assistant. Since the proposed reductions could be effected in their salaries only with their consent, the new schedule was referred to them that they might indicate their willingness to accept the cuts.

And when the "reactions" of these public servants to this economy move were filed with the commission, only one gave unconditional consent.

No more unsound nor vicious practice exists than the policy, employed all too frequently in Georgia, of permitting public officeholders to seek immunity from salary reductions through action by the general assembly.

This practice is largely responsible for the present deplorable condition of the finances of New York City. During the boom days its officeholders had their abnormally high salaries safeguarded from future reductions by recourse to the legislature. Now they greet efforts at economy by saying "it is the law."

With its tax receipts tumbling and unable to reduce its huge overhead for salaries, New York's municipal government found itself faced with bankruptcy. The legislature was called together to take action on the salary situation in the state's largest city so that further advances from the banks might be obtained with which to continue the operations of the municipal government.

In boom times, when things are going good and prices and salaries are abnormally inflated, it is not difficult to get high salaries for public officials approved and permanently fixed. Nobody is then worrying about economy. But the situation is different when economic reaction sets in and the necessity for retrenchment of public expenditures is presented.

But too often the legislative bootmuff prevents a county or a city from adjusting salaries to a reasonable basis.

The system is unwise and unsound. It should not be possible for public servants to defy those charged with the financial responsibility of keeping governmental expenses within the income produced by taxation.

These boards are the direct representatives of the people and when they are told that they cannot reduce salaries because those that draw them have been safeguarded by law, it is tantamount to a defiance of the people.

Still, there's a lot of good in a country where nearly all fires are accidental in spite of a three-year depression.

The strange part of it is that so many congressmen remember how beer affected them 13 years ago.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise:

So you have been to the dentist's again. And doubtless you said, despite the hurting: "Just a wee cavity, quickly filled. Nothing important." If that was your reaction, let me give you a tip. That unimportant business may some day make a bad impression and cost you the job you want, the social position you want, or the man you want.

You know what "bad" teeth can do. They wrecked your old dad's health and brought him years of misery. Isn't that horrible example in the family?

I know your answer. You use the right paste and brush your teeth religiously. But that isn't enough. Bathing regularly won't prevent scurvy.

There is a way to keep your teeth sound, and here is the story of it.

Two missionaries of science, working in China, were impressed by the uniformly flawless teeth in the filthy mouths of their Chinese and Tibetan patients.

Here is the secret of it. The mysterious something called Vitamin D is a kind of digestant. It enables your body to use the calcium and phosphorus in your food.

Nature provides Vitamin D in sunlight and you are supposed to absorb it through your skin, but it is also stored in milk, fresh vegetables and fish oils and you get it that way.

Nature doesn't overlook anything. Your mouth juices flow best when you are chewing, and these juices are the best of all agencies to prevent tooth decay. More chewing, more saliva, better teeth.

That's the whole story. Deny yourself Vitamin D and you will gum it up. Expose yourself to sunlight, chew your food thoroughly and get your share of milk, fresh vegetables and fish oil, and you can forever escape the filling and yanking of teeth.

I'm quite serious, my dear. It is stupid to travel a rough and dangerous road when somebody has paved one for you.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The motion picture industry is in a state of confusion. It is a state of confusion that is not in vain. Here is art, Diana Wynyard, after the brush ladies of the silver screen, is lovely, womanly, soft and tender. She is also one of the best actresses that has ever stood before a camera, which always helps.

Van O'Connor, Merle Tottenham, Herbert Mundin, Ursula Jenne—all the new names brought over to make this picture something unforgettable, gave beautiful performances. As did the old hands.

Sonya Levien made a splendid continuity out of the Coward text. The music was good—but what's the use of good music if it isn't reviewed everywhere already, since this was not a world premiere, and you undoubtedly know as much about it by now as I do.

What you don't know is that Lillian Tashman was her chinchilla wrap—worth $60,000 in a day when Hollywood is selling a good Arabian night's dream and a gold tissue gown that swathed her slenderness like the sheath of a saber. Her gold hair was curled in ringlets and she wore a head and stiffly from the left side of her head to the right ear in back. It is cut very short—just long enough to show her shining eyes and that left-right motion in the back. Gold sandals completed the costume and the silk and velvet of the robe of the hena-eggs—of the robe of the hena-eggs—of the robe of the hena-eggs.

We who have cried out for art in the motion picture profession felt of a sudden that our cries had not been in vain. Here is art, Diana Wynyard, after the brush ladies of the silver screen, is lovely, womanly, soft and tender. She is also one of the best actresses that has ever stood before a camera, which always helps.

Van O'Connor, Merle Tottenham, Herbert Mundin, Ursula Jenne—all the new names brought over to make this picture something unforgettable, gave beautiful performances. As did the old hands.

Sonya Levien made a splendid continuity out of the Coward text. The music was good—but what's the use of good music if it isn't reviewed everywhere already, since this was not a world premiere, and you undoubtedly know as much about it by now as I do.

What you don't know is that Lillian Tashman was her chinchilla wrap—worth $60,000 in a day when Hollywood is selling a good Arabian night's dream and a gold tissue gown that swathed her slenderness like the sheath of a saber. Her gold hair was curled in ringlets and she wore a head and stiffly from the left side of her head to the right ear in back. It is cut very short—just long enough to show her shining eyes and that left-right motion in the back. Gold sandals completed the costume and the silk and velvet of the robe of the hena-eggs—of the robe of the hena-eggs—of the robe of the hena-eggs.

Warmer Weather Predicted for City

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

Though cold weather struck in the Carolinas Friday, Atlanta's mercury did not get below freezing and the outlook for today is "fair and warmer," according to George Mindling, United States meteorologist. Though there is no official forecast for Sunday as yet, the outlook Friday is for continued warm weather.

Snow and sleet, with temperatures as low as 28 degrees, were reported near Raleigh and Charlotte, but the lowest recorded in Atlanta Friday was 35 degrees and the highest was 44 degrees. A rainy condition prevailed across the northern part of Florida and south Georgia. Today the mercury in Atlanta will get no lower than 35 degrees and there will be a minimum temperature of at least 50 degrees, said Mr. Mindling.

There is a way to keep your teeth sound, and here is the story of it.

Two missionaries of science, working in China, were impressed by the uniformly flawless teeth in the filthy mouths of their Chinese and Tibetan patients.

Here is the secret of it. The mysterious something called Vitamin D is a kind of digestant. It enables your body to use the calcium and phosphorus in your food.

Nature provides Vitamin D in sunlight and you are supposed to absorb it through your skin, but it is also stored in milk, fresh vegetables and fish oils and you get it that way.

Nature doesn't overlook anything. Your mouth juices flow best when you are chewing, and these juices are the best of all agencies to prevent tooth decay. More chewing, more saliva, better teeth.

That's the whole story. Deny yourself Vitamin D and you will gum it up. Expose yourself to sunlight, chew your food thoroughly and get your share of milk, fresh vegetables and fish oil, and you can forever escape the filling and yanking of teeth.

I'm quite serious, my dear. It is stupid to travel a rough and dangerous road when somebody has paved one for you.

Love,
(Copyright, 1933, for The Constitution.)

certain services which were furnished here.

The reason Mr. LeCraw and his committee did not accept the offer we made to allow $8 for transportation and $32 for establishment of the family, was the fact that the committee gave us, is that they do not want proper supervision to see that those they send to the farm stay there.

Says He Wrote LeCraw.

"We wrote Mr. LeCraw apprising him of the action of the commission and never heard from him," LeCraw said.

"We never got the letter," Mitchell said.

Councilman Ed L. Almond, chairman of the benevolence and pensions committee of council, defended the commission, saying the members are not professional workers.

The committee decided to permit the division to remain, and let Mitchell and LeCraw's committees attempt to get together.

A sum of $5,025 was placed in the finance sheet for new police equipment, and other allocations were held to the bone.

When the finance sheet is offered to council Monday it will be the least one ever prepared for submission to council in recent history.

With the seven months of extension through which Atlanta and Fulton county plan to begin work on a cooperative plan to lay trunk sewers, amounting now to only $30,000 on the basis of the $10,000 slash made Friday afternoon. It is the only improvement carried in the sheet.

Following is the scale of cuts applied to various employees to balance the budget:

Twenty per cent for employees making over $100 a month.

Seventeen and five-tenths per cent for those making $100.

Fifteen per cent for those making from $80 to $100.

Ten per cent for those making from $60 to $80.

The basic pay of those making less than $60 a month was not cut at all with the exception of members of council, who, at the insistence of Herman G. Everett, Millican, will have their $50 monthly salaries slashed 20 per cent, equivalent to the highest cuts made.

The committee recommended allocations of about $120,000 exclusive of the $140,000 deficit brought forward from 1931, for which no provision about retirement has yet been made.

Inspection Trip Planned.

LeCraw, head of the Forward Georgia committee, said that a representative of the committee of Commerce plans to make an inspection trip of six farm families set to Hancock county and of approximately 95 others scattered in 25 other Georgia counties.

From Sparta came the report to the chamber that the six families have a bountiful crop of turnip greens, winter vegetables, corn, and plenty of firewood and good prospects of working share crops this year.

LeCraw said that the chamber's back-to-the-farm move has so impressed the business interests of Georgia that plans are now being considered to extend it on a much larger scale.

He said the Atlanta organization's idea had spread all over the country. Chicago recently requested details of the movement. He also said that he had a number of applications from farmers with mules, feedstuffs and tools, and farmers who could not work in the city during the winter season. In order to meet this condition, the Forward Georgia committee is now engaged in trying to raise $75 each for every family it can place.

that that was the reason the request for Crawford was denied, and added that, I can't understand any more why the state of Michigan should be asked to return a negro to a Georgia gang.

ROOSEVELT PLANS CAPITAL MEETING

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

President-elect Roosevelt is planning to hold a series of conferences next Thursday and Friday between President-elect Roosevelt and democratic congressional leaders.

Mr. Roosevelt plans a two-day visit here en route to Warm Springs, Ga., where he will spend some time constructing his cabinet and otherwise preparing to take over the administration on March 4.

Speaker Cramer today said he would confer with the incoming executive during his stay here. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic floor leader, and ranking members of important committees also are to discuss the legislative situation with the president-elect.

James A. Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee, who is almost certain to be appointed master-general, is expected to accompany Mr. Roosevelt, but to remain here some time after the conference.

One of the subjects sure to be discussed is the problem of balancing the budget. Democratic leaders are still trying to get their bearings through the senate and to the president, as well as their economy proposals.

Dependent upon these and the action of the farm relief bill, sent to the senate yesterday by the house, is the possibility of a meeting of new congress about April 12. If action is expedited, however, the democrats plan to go ahead with their proposals to raise income taxes, but they concede privately that this probably will have to go over to the new congress.

Definite plans for the conference have not been made. Different groups are planning to urge Roosevelt to favor some currency inflation proposal as well as other measures to aid the farm mortgage situation.

A feeling is growing among the democrats that they should await an extra session before undertaking any more unpopular proposals, but they have control of both branches of congress and know that their measures will not run the risk of a possible veto.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the democratic floor leader, said this plan would be acceptable except for more unpopular proposals, but they have control of both branches of congress and know that their measures will not run the risk of a possible veto.

ROOSEVELT'S ATTENTION HELD BY UNEMPLOYMENT

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Jan. 13.—(AP)—The problem of getting America's millions of unemployed off relief rolls and back to work rolled prominently across the busy conference table of President-elect Roosevelt today.

Before returning here tonight for a week-end at the quiet Hyde Park estate, Mr. Roosevelt at New York gave an hour to the problem of unemployment, which he said was the most important of the nation's problems.

"The quicker we get people back to work and off relief demands the better it will be for the nation," he said.

He said that the problem of unemployment was a great task and that it would be a great accomplishment to get it solved.

R. F. C. IS APPROVED
BY SENATE GROUPCommittee Finds "No Criticism," But Complains of Lack of Cash.WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP)— The special committee created by the senate to investigate loans by the Reconstruction Corporation reported today that it had no "criticism" of the relief organization's conduct, but asserted the committee's inquiry had been "limited" because of lack of funds.The formal report submitted to the senate today by Chairman Couzens was signed by all members of the investigating committee. Confining its report to the loans that have not been made public, the committee said:
"From the data at hand your committee is unable to make any criticism.
The loans all seem to have been in accordance with the law, except that we have not been able to determine whether loans were made as required by Section 5 of the law, namely, to aid agriculture, industry and commerce.""Your committee does not recommend that the fact that when the loans were made the act did not require that they be made public."Among the loans investigated by the committee was the reported $90, 000,000 advance to the Dawes Bank of Chicago, which was criticized in congress and during the recent political campaign.The report said securities backed by the loans had not been examined by the committee because "with the limited opportunity presented to the committee, no further examination could have been made."Diversified Farming Aim of G. C. AdamsA statewide program for promotion of diversified farming was announced Friday by G. C. Adams, commissioner of agriculture, who will seek to have each county plant as a major crop the produce best adapted to its soil. The agricultural department will aid in raising and marketing the crop, Mr.
Adams said.The department is working in cooperation with Connie Lee, of Enigma, a pioneer in the movement. Mr.
Adams said. Another matter engaging the commission's attention at present is the question of obtaining legislation to protect Georgia apple and peach growers. Out-of-the-state shipments of apples are being packed here and sold as the Georgia variety, he charged.MERCHANTS DESCRIBE "ENDLESS CHAIN" PLANThe Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association on Friday called the public's attention to an "endless chain" selling plan which has made its appearance here. The association said:
"One plan starts out by selling one pair of hose to a customer for $2.
This entitles the customer to take orders from his friends and others at $2 per pair, and, after the third sale, receives a commission of $1 per pair."
"These people are then entitled to take orders from their friends and receive a commission of $1 per pair after the third pair. On the first three pair of hose sold by the three people composing the second link in the chain, the first customer receives a commission of $1 per pair, and so on in an endless chain."
"One of these plans modestly limits the earnings of any one person to $10,000. The plan also refrains from explaining that if the fifteenth link were reached without a break, more than fourteen million people would be involved, and that if it were continued to the twentieth link, more than three billion people would be involved."
"Another similar plan involves the sale of fountain pens at $1 each."OAKHURST CHURCH

liams and will extend through Sun-of the East Point Presbyterian church and now devotes his entire time to

GILLIAM'S QUESTIONSDespite the fact that school principles and officials of the Atlanta
Public School Teachers' Association have demanded that the 1,400 teachers in Atlanta to turn over to them the questionnaire sent out by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, more than 100 answers had been received by Gilliam late Friday afternoon. It was announced. Teachers copied the questions asked and answered them, filing the original queries, it was said.
"Virtually all of the answers advocated the abolition of the visual education and testing and guidance departments; a smaller board; temporary elimination of kindergartens, as an economy measure, and a large number of supervisors."RADIO TUBES

Does the FARMER Benefit From- DISORGANIZED DISTRIBUTION?

They tell us—

"Commercial Motor Trucks are saving Georgia farmers millions of dollars annually in reduced cost of transportation of crops!"

That's the astounding claim that is being made up and down and across the state by "FOR-HIRE" Motor Vehicle interests—and the pathetic part about it is that many of us believe it.

BENEFIT THE FARMER? Why—the unregulated, uncontrolled transportation condition that exists today is strangling the life out of him. IT IS RUINING THE FARMER!

Everybody realizes—the farmer KNOWS, too well—that the price his products bring in the market today DOES NOT PAY THE COST OF PRODUCTION. Yet, people are buying food. Why then, can't the farmer get a living price for what he produces?

BECAUSE HIS MARKETS ARE GLUTTED WITH FARM PRODUCTS FROM ALL OVER THE COUNTRY BROUGHT IN HERE BY TRUCKS AND DUMPED—THEREBY FORCING PRICES DOWN!

Professional truck peddlers from far and wide come into Georgia, generally in the middle of the night, their trucks almost bursting with anything produced on the farm, orchard or grove. Regardless of quality these itinerants dump their loads on the market, pocket their gain and silently steal away, without payment even of license tax or fee of any kind.

Go down and look over the Open-Air Market at Central and Trinity Avenues, in Atlanta. Go out on the main roads just outside the limits of any city in Georgia. You'll get an idea of what's going on. YOU'LL SEE THIS UNFAIR COMPETITION DUMPED ON THE GEORGIA FARMER!

Talk to your local merchants—the storekeeper in your midst, the retail grocer, the market man—who pay all kinds of taxes and license. ASK HIM WHAT'S HAPPENING. He knows.

And in the face of this glutted market what is the farmer also up against in trying to get a living price for HIS products?

HE IS UP AGAINST UNSTABILIZED FREIGHT RATES by "FOR-HIRE" trucks, generally, when he tries to move his own products. He is paying one rate—his neighbor another. HE IS IN THE DARK. He makes the best trade he can, sends his produce to an already overloaded market AND HE TAKES WHAT HE CAN GET!

SAVING THE FARMER MILLIONS OF DOLLARS BY DEMORALIZING HIS MARKET?

What difference would it make to the farmer if his products were transported for nothing if he couldn't get anything for them?

But—somebody says—the consumer is benefited. He buys at a lower price. ARE YOU BENEFITED WHEN YOU HELP STRANGLE THE LIFE OUT OF THE FARMER? WOULD YOU RUIN THE FARMER simply so you could pay a few cents less for an inferior grade of potatoes peddled from some other state than you would have to pay for prime Georgia potatoes under normal conditions and standard freight rates?

LET'S STOP THIS NONSENSE! Stop being misled into thinking that this unregulated, disorganized, chaotic distribution of farm products is benefiting anybody but the Motor Truck Owner who IS RESPONSIBLE FOR DEMORALIZING THE MARKET!

Let's go back to controlled distribution by Railroads until distribution by Motor Truck is controlled!

The farmer and agricultural producer must have at his command facilities adequate to transport crops and produce in large and small volume at low cost but these facilities must be regulated and controlled or cut-throat competition is certain. Rates must be standardized and made public or the farmers' market will never be protected!

There is only one regulated, controlled transportation facility in Georgia today with standard, public, known rates—THE RAILROAD!

LET'S STICK BY THE RAILROAD AND PROTECT THE FARMER!

THE RAILROADS NEED AND DESERVE YOUR SUPPORT!

The co-operation of the following fair-minded, straight-thinking citizens is making this series of public appeals possible.

WOOD, RUNYAN TIED FOR LEAD ACROSS BORDER

Young Texan "Cracks" as Vets Turn on Steam as End Nears.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 13.—Craig Wood, of Deak, N. J., gave young Ray Mangrum, of Waco, Texas, a golfing lesson today, with the result that Wood joined the top flight, tying with Paul Runyan at 217 to lead the field with one round left to play in the $7,500 Agua Caliente open.

Mangrum, who held a two-stroke lead at the half-way mark, virtually was eliminated from consideration, with a 221 total.

Wood was on top of his game, to shoot a 71, but it was his uncanny putting which broke the heart of the young Texan and threw him so badly off his game that he took 80 strokes to negotiate the long 18-hole course, where he clipped three from par for a 69 on the first day and played an even 72 yesterday.

Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente professional, and John Perrelli, a young pro from Beverly Hills, Cal., clubbed their way to second place in the standing with totals of 218. Horton Smith, of Oak Park, Ill., and Al Espinoza, of Akron, Ohio, had 219 for the third bracket.

Runyan, the young professional from White Plains, N. Y., played a spotted golf. He made three birdies and took five bogies for a total of 74. The shaky play of the youngsters who had been the pace setters, and consistently good golf by the veterans, who had been lagging several strokes behind, served to tighten up the field. The stage was set for a free-for-all scramble tomorrow for the $1,500 first prize money. Sixteen players were within five strokes of the lead.

The best scores made today were a pair of 70s, one by MacDonald Smith, of Pasadena, Cal., and Al Espinoza, of Akron, Ohio, who tied for the lead.

John Dawson, Chicago amateur, Dawson's score gave him a 54-hole total of 221, a three-stroke advantage over Neil White, of Los Angeles, amateur champion who stood second among the Simon Pures.

Olaf Datta, the G. A. champion, could do no better than the 71, for a three-day total of 222, while the defending champion, Fred Morrison, of Pasadena, Cal., had a total of 220. It was doubtful whether he would be among the first 20, who will divide the "dinero" at the race track late tomorrow.

BEN JEBY WINS GOTHAM CROWN

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Ben Jeby, from the east side ghetto, chopped Frank Battaglia, of Canada, into a 12-round technical knockout defeat tonight to win New York state recognition as the middleweight champion of the world.

Flourished for counts of nine in both the second and eleventh rounds, Battaglia, who once knocked Jeby out in a single round, fought a courageous battle against overwhelming odds.

Within another minute, Battaglia's right eye was swollen shut.

Miller Wins N. B. A. Title.

CHICAGO STADIUM, CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Freddie Miller, of Cincinnati, won the N. B. A. featherweight championship tonight by defeating Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, titleholder, in their ten-round battle. The decision of the two judges and referee was unanimous.

CHARGES UPHELD BY RATE EXPERT

Service Charge Benefits Small Consumers, Declares Reed at Macon.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Topping a day's intensive testimony in the electric rate revision hearing before the Georgia public service commission here, Charles S. Reed, New York city rate expert, declared in a night session called to complete the hearing, that "small consumers will be better served by the present charge is increased" and the energy rate reduced.

His testimony, consisting of analyses of the domestic rate situation from the "customer's viewpoint," launched a raft of opposition from attorneys representing the city of Macon, and when 10 o'clock arrived, and the cross-examination was still unfinished, James A. Perry, chairman of the commission, continued the hearing until 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

The gas rate hearing, which must be completed Saturday to permit the public hearing on electric rates to begin Monday, was expected to begin as soon as the electric hearing is completed Saturday morning.

Mr. Reed submitted a group of statistical tables compiled to illustrate the effect of the present rate on domestic consumers, the effect of elimination of the "service" or "demand" charge and absorption of it in the kilowatt hour rate; and of increasing the kilowatt rate to permit reduction of the kilowatt hour rate. Both the schedules he proposed would yield the same revenue from the residential service as is obtained from the present schedule.

Three city attorneys hammered all day at Preston S. Arkwright's testimony on affairs of the Georgia Power Company and connected enterprises. The hearing reached a tense point late this afternoon as J. Ellsworth Hall Jr., assistant city attorney, interrupted proceedings to attack Mr. Arkwright's conception of valuation for public utility rates.

Examination and cross-examination by E. W. Maynard, Macon city attorney; J. Ellsworth Hall Jr., assistant city attorney; and Lamar Rucker, Athens city attorney, made little headway against Mr. Arkwright's testimony or his comports. Mr. Rucker's examination, which occupied most of the afternoon session, was intense and insistent, but did not succeed in materially shaking the power company president's position regarding the service charge, the holding company situation, and the status of his business in general.

Mr. Rucker, however, denied the legal existence of the Georgia Power Company as a corporate entity, basing his contention on provisions of the supreme court in railroad cases. He declared that companies of which all the common stock is owned by one holding company cannot be treated as corporate entities, and that the directors, elected by the holding company, make the power companies virtually instruments of the holding companies.

Mr. Arkwright, however, expressed his denial of this. Mr. Arkwright, unperturbed at the demands of his questioners, replied again and again, "I don't know—I don't remember."

The commission received two telegrams from Hawkinsville citizens with reference to John J. Blount's statement on the hearing Thursday that because of the sum paid by the power company for the old Hawkinsville electric plant, the city did not levy any property tax last year.

Statement of John J. Blount, as quoted in Macon Telegraph that Hawkinsville, levied no tax last year is incorrect, said the first telegram. "Ten mills was levied. Give this same publicity."

It was signed by H. T. Lawson, E. C. Brown and A. R. Bush. A few minutes later came another telegram, signed by John J. Blount, chairman of committee. It read: "Only property tax levied by city of Hawkinsville for 1931 was for school purposes only."

HOMICIDE JUSTIFIABLE, SAYS CORONER'S JURY

MACON, Ga., Jan. 13.—(AP)—A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned by a coroner's jury today in the death of Mike O'Neal, 28, carnival high diver, shot last night by L. R. Burke, railway officer.

Burke testified that O'Neal, after the latter knocked him down as he alighted from a freight train. Two men listed as Herschel Covington, 25, of Valdosta, and J. C. McMurphy, 33, of Montgomery, companions of O'Neal, who were held on charges of stealing a rule on a train, gave much the same testimony as Burke.

Relatives of O'Neal at Battle Creek, Mich., and Gary, Ind., notified officers they could not pay burial expenses but it was believed members of a carnival company at Montgomery might provide for the funeral.

THREE RESIGNATIONS ACCEPTED BY SHOLTZ

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Governor Dave Sholtz today accepted the resignations of W. S. McLean, state motor vehicle director; E. C. Strickland, state shellfish commissioner; and W. S. Morrow, state auditor, and appointed Bryan Watts, of West Palm Beach, as Morrow's successor.

The three resignations and Watts' appointment will go into effect February 1.

FARMER NEAR NEWMAN KILLED BY AX ATTACK

NEWMAN, Ga., Jan. 13.—Thomas Sewell, 70, farmer who resided about ten miles from here, was found dead Thursday night, apparently the victim of an attack with an ax. Sewell was found on the floor of his barn by members of his family, who became alarmed when he did not return feeling his stock.

The rear portion of his head was crushed and an ax lay near by. He was taken to his home, where he died about an hour later. Sewell was in the habit of carrying considerable money on his person, but none was found following the attack, according to investigating officers, who believe robbery to have been the motive for the murder.

Officers instituted a wide search for the killer on Friday but have few clues on which to base their investigation. The Covetta county commissioners, at a special meeting this afternoon, offered a reward of $100 for the capture of the murderer.

Sewell is survived by his wife and one son, Lonnie Sewell. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning at Macedonia Baptist church.

NEGRO FARM LEAGUE CONVENES IN ALBANY

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Four hundred negro farmers of Georgia, meeting here today, heard addresses by Professor A. L. Hurie of New York University, President Guy H. Wells, of Georgia Normal College at Statesboro, and Dean Henderson, of the same institution.

Dr. J. W. Holley, president of the Georgia Normal and Agricultural School, in East Atlanta, presided over the annual meeting of the Negro Farmers' League in Georgia, which he organized some years ago. He said that reports indicate that the negro, in ever growing numbers, is returning to the farm, "where he belongs, and where he has his best chance for economic independence and development."

Members of his race were urged to continue the live-at-home program which he said, resulted last year in negroes raising more food supplies than ever before. All members of the league, even the poorest, were reported to have made adequate food supplies for themselves and families.

Plans were made at the conference for securing government loans for negro farmers. Dr. Holley said 80 per cent of the league members who secured such loans last year have repaid them in full.

DIFFERENCE SPREADS AT LABOR CONFERENCE

Regret Expressed That U. S. Not Participating in Meeting.

GENEVA, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Disagreement between employers and workers' delegations upon the question of the maintenance of wages at their present levels became more clearly emphasized today in debate at the international labor conference on a proposal for a 40-hour week.

The workers stoutly defended their resolution demanding that the reduction in hours be accomplished without a pay cut, declaring that employers must share the burdens of the depression and must provide more equitable distribution if the present system is to survive.

Arthur Hayday, representing British workers, expressed regret that the United States is not participating officially in the meeting. Spokesmen for the workers argued that to hold the pay scale unchanged while reducing hours and increasing the number of workers employed would increase purchasing power, thus benefiting industry as a whole.

A Belgian employer-delegate denounced the proposal as "valueless and dangerous." The transport industry especially, he said, was unsuited to shorter hours.

13 Chicagoans Defy Curse of '13' To Prove Superstition Is 'Bunk'

CHICAGO, Friday, the 13th of January.—(AP)—The 13 members of Chicago's Anti-Superstition Society wound up 13 days of breaking mirrors and walking under ladders today with a 13-course luncheon starting at 13 o'clock (European time). The society's president, Sidney N. Strotz, (count the letters in his name) delivered as the main address this 13-word discourse in exactly 13 seconds.

"The purpose of this organization is to prove superstition to be the bunk," Strotz said. "Every member then spilled salt and water 13 set on a dias in the center of the table a black lemon studded with 25 black-headed pins—avoided to be unluckier than a thousand black cats on a dark night."

At the end of the jinx-defying luncheon, each member wished every one the worst to luck, and 12 cigarettes were lighted from four matches, the thirteenth member of the club being a non-smoker. The members started the club as a joke, but Secretary Herman T. Powers disclosed in a more serious tone at the luncheon that the 13 days of trying to cause bad luck have taught them a moral.

"We have learned," he said, "that fear is the thing that keeps prosperity away. What America needs is a positive attitude, not a fearful one. It was fear that caused 90 per cent of our bank runs. We've started a permanent organization, being copied by many other cities, and I believe we'll do the country lots of good."

Then each of the 13 members picked up one of 13 candles, paraded under a ladder, touched the flames to an oil soaked statue of Buddha and walked unflinchingly across the trail of a black cat that had been shooed across the floor of the cafe.

SCHOOL AID MEASURE GETS HEARING JAN. 19

George's Plea for R.F.C. Relief To Be Considered by Solons.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Senator John G. Townsend Jr., of Delaware, chairman of a subcommittee of the senate banking and currency committee, today said a hearing had been set for January 19 on the George bill which authorizes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to lend money to public schools throughout the country in order that they may continue to pay teachers and carry on their usual educational activities throughout the present period of depression.

Speaking of rackets—a French woman has been working one that caps the climax. At last it has landed her in the law courts, as rackets sometimes have a way of doing. She is a spiritualist and a spiritualistic medium. Her first husband died and soon thereafter his spirit appeared at her window one evening about dusk, advising her to marry a certain man, who was also a spiritualist. She was not slow about communicating this advice to number two, nor unsuccessful in convincing him that heaven would smile on such a union.

Before the Civil Tribunal of Nancy in France number two recently appeared, acknowledged his debt to number one, Cesar, by name, for much excellent advice relating to his early married life. But he also announced that he was completely despiritualized by the extent to which his wife had pressed upon him Cesar's conceptions of his (number two) duty to his wife and her duty to her living husband. The lady racketeer, it appears, drunk with the success of her first husband, brought her second husband into a state of open rebellion. He protested to the court as follows: "To every question ask her she replies, 'I will see whether Cesar approves.' If I ask her to take a walk, it is always the same—I'll ask Cesar." But frequently Cesar has answered in the negative, so I am no longer master in my own house. My wife is sorry, but she must always do as Cesar says. That I can no longer permit."

The physicians are quite familiar with the "nervous" racket that is frequently worn. It is not unusual for a woman to feign illness in order to get the attention of an indifferent husband. Atlanta, however, has a racketeer who has taken the case a step further. She has actually worn up the symptoms that are associated with the disease she feigns. "Neurosis," the doctors call these types, with a sort of morbid contempt. Some of these women get to be hospital addicts, going from one hospital to another to be cured of a non-existent malady, which in truth is their racket, a possession of which they would not be rid if they could.

Then there is the martyr racket which is one of the most luxurious of them. There is a wide field in which it may be operated and rich spoils may be collected from it. You know a dozen varieties of martyr rackets. The woman who wallows in self-pity because of her self-sacrifice for her husband and children practices one. To hear her tell it she has no time or money for recreation, no thought for her own comfort and pleasure, no leisure in which to do things she would really like to do, if she dared to think of what she wanted to do. She doesn't even have the dishes for dinner that her own taste would suggest because her husband prefers some others. And her shabby clothes, which wouldn't even be recognized as shabby by outsiders, are always referred to in her conversation because they are the badge of her martyrdom. Could any husband be unkindful of a woman whose whole life had been such a long sacrifice to him and his interests?

The most amusing martyr of them all is the love-martyr. Her husband can't endure the disappointment of coming home and finding her absent. He is so jealous of her that he smugly brings her second husband into a state of open rebellion. He is not willing for her to engage in any sort of pleasure or pastime that he cannot share with her and she has to decline half the invitations that come to her for fear of incurring his displeasure should she accept them. No matter how tired and ill she feels, no matter how she longs for her bed when night comes, she always manages to conceal the frets and worries from him and to be her most charming self whenever he enters the front door. She calls her professional entertainer, whose motto is "The play must go on."

This, however, is such a profitable racket as some of the others. For the most to be gotten out of the love-martyr racket is what is put into it. Spoiled husbands don't give rewards to their wives for spoiling them. They figure the wives are well paid in the service rendered. And they are, for instead of the case being one of genuine self-pity it is feigned self-pity. The love-martyr ministers to her own pride and vanity. The woman who can convince herself that her husband's affection for her and dependence upon her demands martyrdom is suffering it patiently as long as she can tell other women about it. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Smith, 1608 Evans drive, was cut severely about the head when the car driven by Geeslin, containing the car driven by Hudson and Patrolman T. NANCY PAGE

Plants, Flowering Shrubs and Bulbs Brighten the Home

BY FLORENCE LA GANKE.

but not so long that you cripple the vase. Set the vase in a sunny place. Have water in the vase, put the pruned pieces in and watch the sunshine of forsythia brighten that room. Or get some bulbs and some nice white pebbles. Almost any store has them for sale. You don't need to go to an exclusive florist establishment. Follow the directions and within three weeks you will have flowers blossoming on your window sill.

I'd choose pottery containers that "I followed your advice and bought two new lamp shades. Now have you any other ideas for making my house look brighter?"

"Let's see, you want ideas for things that won't cost much, that are easy to acquire and to take care of after you have put the idea into concrete form."

"You read me like a book. I want all those things. Can I get them?"

"I think so. How about some plants or bulbs or shrubs?"

"All right, Nancy, but I said I did not want to spend much money. You sound like the day before 1930."

"Now wait a minute. You have a forsythia bush outside your door, haven't you? And it wasn't pruned this fall, was it? So, let me tell you you were economizing and did not have a gardener."

"Right. But what has forsythia to do with January?"

"Quite a bit. You see we will make it spring here come."

"Take your pruning shears and cut off some of the branches. Cut them long enough to be graceful in a vase."

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Choosing the Right Suit.

The question of playing a hand with a 4-4 distribution rather than with a 5-3 distribution is one which puzzles many players. They are unable to grasp the advantage of being able to retain equal control in both hands and they do not see how it can pay to be occasionally forced down to three trumps immediately.

The following hand concerns the all-important question of discards, and the reader will note that if played as six hearts the contract will be defeated, whereas six diamonds is an absolute lay-down.

South—Dealer.

♠ 10 9 6 5	♥ N	♦ K Q 8 7
♣ Q 9 6	♥ E	♦ 5 3
♣ 8 4	♥ W	♦ 9 2
♣ 10 7 2	♥ S	♦ J 8 5 4 3

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South West North East

20(1) Pass 2NT(2) Pass

30(3) Pass 40(4) Pass

60(5) Pass Pass Pass

1—Clearly a sound Opening two-bid.

2—While the hand contains more than 1 honor-trick, I believe that this response is the safest. The bidding cannot die and it will be quite easy for North to show his extra values later.

3—In spite of the 150 Aces, the second suit should be shown.

4—Not exactly a strength-showing bid, but distributionally, slightly encouraging. Three no-trump would completely deny any Slam possibilities.

5—Perhaps a slight overbid, but South knows that his partner holds at least four diamonds. On that basis the heart suit must be available, for discards and even only one King in the North hand will make the Slam a good gamble.

The play is fairly obvious. On a spade Opening, Declarer must lay down his Ace-King of diamonds. If this suit breaks 3-2, the location of the Queen does not particularly interest him. Two rounds of clubs and two rounds of hearts will place the lead in the South hand, and the Ace of clubs can then be used to discard the third heart in Dummy. After that a heart can be ruffed, the Queen of diamonds conceded and the remainder of the tricks claimed.

It will be noted that there is no play for six hearts, as the one discard available with the Ace of clubs will not prove sufficient to eliminate the diamond loser.

AROUND LOCAL CONTRACT TABLES

by Whitner Cary

SUWANEE HOTEL, ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 11.—(By Mail.)—The situation looks much better along all fronts.

As these lines are typed, Mrs. Gladys Peabody, Atlanta's representative in the national amateur bridge championship now in session in this charming city, has bettered her position from eighth to sixth in the standing, and while the outlook still appears desperate for her to crash through, she has a fighting chance.

As the matter now stands the contestants in this nation-wide tournament have completed play on 32 boards. That leaves them 88 more to finish in the remaining three sessions.

Gladys is trailing Mrs. L. H. Brink of Indianapolis, by 5,055 points. The latter, who got off to a flying start in the first session, managed to hold her place at the top of the list, although Mrs. Sidney Conner, of Macon, is right on her heels and is trailing by only 110 points, a very slim margin indeed.

The Macon representative made a great spurt in Wednesday's play and came from fourth place to second. One would say that she is in splendid shape as the third session is about to get under way.

In the day's play Mrs. Peabody was third in the number of points scored. Her unfortunate start of Tuesday, however, still prevents her from being within striking distance. As the style of play in this particular tournament is that of rubber bridge where each card plays a tremendous role it is not too late for Gladys to overcome the lead of Mrs. Brink. The best way in which to describe her position is to compare it to a person in rubber bridge who is that many points minus on the score sheet. She has 88 more hands to play. Figuring eight hands to a rubber one can see that there are about 11 more rubbers to play before the final count is reached.

In the pair championship, run in conjunction with the main tournament, I am delighted to state that Mrs. Humphrey Wagner and your correspondent piled up a pretty fair-sized lead in the first two sessions held Wednesday afternoon. Out of a possible 154 points we recovered 116, which is about a 75 per cent game.

Our nearest rivals are two St. Petersburg players, Mrs. R. L. Cook and Mrs. Lyster, with 88 1/2 points.

Next come our old friends, Miss Peggy Porter and Ed Jarvis, with

San Franciscan Wins Florida Bridge Meet

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 13.

(UP)—A mere male, the only one in the finals of the National Amateur Contract Bridge tournament, came from behind late today and won the title.

Carroll Duren, San Francisco, had been in fifth place for two days, with four women ahead of him, but today he impetuously wound up with a score of 8,505 for the 140 hands, a scan 30 points ahead of Miss Sadie Bennett, New Orleans, who had yesterday's Mrs. Sidney Conner, Macon, Ga., scored 8,350 points for third place.

After four days of play the leaders were so closely bunched that the final hand was necessary in determining the winner. All in the tournament were amateur players, sent here for the finals by newspapers sponsoring district finals over the country.

William E. McKinnier, secretary of the American Bridge League, tonight presented Duren with the silver championship cup and indicated that the tournament would be held here again next winter.

CHINESE IN JEHO CHECK JAPANESE

Mounted Chinese Raiders Thrust Into Manchuria by Surprise Attack.

By HERBERT R. EKINS.

PEIPING, China, Jan. 13.—(UP)—A surprise counter-offensive checked the Japanese march on Jehol and carried the attacking Chinese column across the border deep into Manchuria.

Chinese dispatches from various sectors along the front reported tonight that the Japanese had been surprised by a surprise attack by Chinese forces.

The Chinese were jubilant and celebrated their victory reports as the Japanese column was driven back to the Japanese advance on Jehol province.

The raiders, thousands mounted on the hardy little Mongolian ponies, moved swiftly against the Japanese infantry and heavy artillery units in the vicinity of Taonan, near the northwestern extremity of Jehol.

Guerillas, including detachments of the fighting "big sword" skirmished with Japanese forces defending bases, transports and communications from Taonan en route to Suichung, on the Jehol border 175 miles to the south.

The Chinese raiders under General Feng Chan-hai, supporting troops under General Tang Yu-lin, were credited with the first successful counter-move halting the Japanese drive, at least temporarily.

General Feng's men were reported to have crossed the Jehol border into Manchuria and pressed on toward the Japanese concentration at Taonan.

The move was declared by Chinese sources to have had the effect of blocking the column of General Chang Hai-ten, Manchukuo troop leader, at Peitsyangtze, in southern Jehol.
